What is NAIA?

NAIA is an educational organization of business, agricultural, scientific and recreational interests dedicated to promoting animal welfare and strengthening the bond between people and animals. NAIA includes thousands of pet owners, dog and cat clubs, obedience clubs and rescue groups as well as breeders, trainers, veterinarians, research scientists, farmers, fishermen, hunters and wildlife biologists.

NAIA strives to provide the public with useful and accurate information about animal issues, especially those issues that are complex, misunderstood or controversial.

- NAIA ...
- has a speakers bureau that provides experts to media, classrooms and public policy makers.
 - serves on local, state and national task forces and committees,
 - hosts national conferences,
 - moderates Internet talk lists and animal rescue groups for 50 states,
 - publishes a quarterly newspaper and an electronic newsletter and hosts an award-winning website.

NAIA supports ordinary people and professionals as they strive to learn more about animal care, training and husbandry, or simply to become better pet owners. We believe that education and tolerance are the keys to progress in a free society and work with all legal animal industries, enterprises and recreational pursuits in which the participants are working for improvements. We support the rule of law and oppose the illegal and unethical acts of animal abusers and animal rights extremists who take the law into their own hands.

CHICKEN, PETS, AND FISHING COULD BE HISTORY

If the animal rights movement has its way, many of your favorite things could be history. Animal rightists want to eliminate chicken, hot dogs, hamburger, ice cream, cheese, and fish sticks. They're opposed to hunting and fishing. No more leather belts, wool socks, silk blouses. Goodbye to zoos, circuses, and your favorite pet.

Animal rights activists worldwide are attempting to impose their value system on the rest of us. They believe that animals are equal to people. As one animal rights leader puts it: "A rat is a pig is a dog is a boy."

The animal rights movement opposes the use of animals for food, clothing, medical research, entertainment, and even for companionship. It's an entirely new value system, and if they can't persuade you to adopt it, they'll try to intimidate you into accepting it.

Responsible people care about animal welfare. They want to see animals treated humanely. But animal welfare isn't what the animal rights movement is after. So ... the next time you see an animal rights protest on the street, remember what these people really want. Whether they're opposing meat or medical research, zoos or fur, their real agenda goes much further.

The next time anyone asks you for support of bills to "help animals" make sure your support won't be used to promote a value system that puts animals ahead of people and condones or actively supports the use of violence as a means to an end.

Their protests and actions make it clear: if animal rights activists prevail, you won't be eating chicken, going fishing, or enjoying pets – you'll be reading about them ... in the history books.

Here's how animal rights leaders describe their plans

"Our goal: to convince people to rescue and adopt instead of buying or selling animals, to disavow the language and concept of animal ownership." – Eliot Katz, In Defense of Animals website, 2001

"We have no problem with the extinction of domestic animals." – Wayne Pacelle, Vice-President, Humane Society of the US, formerly with Fund for Animals in Animal People, May, 1993

"If we really believe that animals have the same right to be free from pain and suffering at our hands, then, of course we're going to be blowing things up and smashing windows.... I think it would be great if all of the fast-food outlets, slaughterhouses, these laboratories, and the banks that fund them exploded tomorrow. I think it's perfectly appropriate for people to take bricks and toss them through the windows. ... Hallelujah to the people who are willing to do it." – PeTA's Bruce Friedrich, at the Animal Rights 2001 conference, July 2001

"If (a particular researcher) won't stop when you ask nicely, when you picket in front of his house, or when you burn his car, maybe he'll stop when you hit him over the head with a two-by-four." Jerry Vlasak, Chronicle of Higher Education, February 20, 2011

"We should take good care of the domestic animals we have brought into existence until they die. We should stop bringing more domestic animals into existence." Gary Francione, on Columbia University Press blog, June 18, 2008.

"Breeders must be eliminated! ... If you know of a breeder in the Los Angeles area, whether commercial or private, legal or illegal, let us know and we will post their name, location, phone number so people can write them letters telling them 'Don't Breed or Buy, While Others DIE.'" "Breeders! Let's get rid of them too!" Campaign on Animal Defense League's website, September 2, 2003.

Here's how animal rights leaders are implementing their plans:

In May 2002 PeTA hired Gary Yourofsky to head its school lecture program Yourofsky served jail time for stealing mink and is a frequent proponent of violence in the cause of animal rights. Here's what he told the Toledo Blade less than a year earlier*:

"Do not be afraid to condone arsons at places of animal torture."

If an "animal abuser" were killed in a research lab firebombing, "I would unequivocally support that too."

*"Activist devotes life to animal rights," Toledo Blade, June 24, 2001

January 26, 2003: At the National Conference on Organized Resistance at American University, convicted arsonist Rodney Coronado showed the audience how to build a cheap incendiary device. "Here's a little model I'm going to show you here. ... It is a simple plastic jug, which you fill with gasoline and oil. ... You put the incense stick in here, light it, place it -- underneath the 'weapon of mass destruction,' light the incense stick ... and you destroy the profits that are brought about through animal and earth abuse. That's about -- two dollars." Coronado also said, "You know, those people - I think they should appreciate that we're only targeting their property. Because frankly I think it's time to start targeting them."

March 7, 2009 Los Angeles, CA: ALF fanatics firebombed the car of a UCLA neuroscientist, using a home-made incendiary device. The professor's car was engulfed in flames and destroyed, and nearby trees caught fire.

Fall 2013 The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) paid Feld Entertainment $9.3 million to settle racketeering case against them.

Spring 2014 The Humane Society of the United States, (HSUS) paid Feld Entertainment $15.75 million to settle racketeering case against them.
